MARFA GENERAL INFORMATION

Marfa is located in the High Chihuahuan Desert at 4,800 feet and is the Presidio County Seat. Marfa has one of the most beautifully restored courthouses in all of Texas. As of the 2010 US Census, 1,981 people lived in the Marfa city limits, you might well think it was larger what with the charged-up atmosphere.

Marfa began life as a railroad watering stop and freight headquarters for the Galveston, Harrisburg and San Antonio Railway. Ranching has always dominated the community with the county having some of the largest and most beautiful spreads anywhere. In the 1970s the art world, led by Donald Judd, began to create a new identity for Marfa's as one of the world's most important art communities. Various films have been made here including the now iconic 1956 Warner Brothers film Giant, starring Elizabeth Taylor, Rock Hudson and James Dean. In 2006 the Academy award winning films There Will Be Blood and No Country for Old Men were filmed here. In 2008, Marfa added a film festival to the art scene, the CineMarfa Film Festival.

Come Shoot 'Em Up in Marfa and join the award winners.

A special thanks to the Marfa Visitor Center Website and Staff for their help in compiling this data base.

~ EVENTS & LANDMARKS~

Chinati Weekend – Over the Columbus Day weekend, one of the most anticipated festivals in the art world, the Chinati Weekend, begins with a Champagne reception, continues with discussions, showings, screenings and “Talks” on the work of Donald Judd as well as other artists. It concludes with a dinner and a party that brings color and light to the Marfa art faithful.

CineMarfa Film Festival

The Website States, “The Marfa Film Festival Is On Hiatus. Love & Light”

Marfa Court House – From Wikipedia: “...National Register of Historic Places in 1977... designated a Recorded Texas Historic Landmark in 1964.

San Antonio architect Alfred Giles beat out eighteen other competitors to submit the winning bid on designing the 1886 courthouse at a cost of $60,000. Giles modeled the Second Empire style building after the El Paso courthouse he also designed in 1886. When the structure was completed, the county held a celebratory grand ball on January 1, 1887.

...Designed of brick and stone quarried in Marfa, the exterior is of pink stucco with Lady Justice sitting atop the central dome. The tower is spanned by Roman arches. Interiors are designed of pecan wood. Domers extend over the roof, with triangular pediments and iron cresting. The building has entrances on all sides, meeting in a central rotunda. When designed, the district courtroom took up the entire east side of the second floor. The grand jury room was on the third floor. A remodeling took place in 2001.”

Marfa Lights and Festival - The following comes from the Marfa Visitor Center's website: “Accounts of strange and unexplained phenomena just outside of Marfa began during the 19th century and continue to this day. Ranchers, Apaches, high school sweethearts and famous meteorologists alike have reported seeing seemingly source less lights dance on the horizon southeast of town, an area that is nearly uninhabited and extremely difficult to traverse. The mystery lights are sometimes red, sometimes blue, sometimes white, and usually appear at random throughout the night, no matter the season or the weather. While the source of the mystery lights is still a point of contention, the show goes on....”

The official Marfa Lights Viewing Area is located 10 miles east of town on Highway 90, towards Alpine. Bring an open mind.”

Marfa Lights Festival – The festival happens over Labor Day weekend.

Designed in 1930 by the renowned architects, Trost & Trost of El Paso, the Paisano has been home to fabulous cattle and ranch deals as well as films such as Giant (you can still stay in the rooms and suites the stars of the film used). Like the Holland Hotel, El Capitan and the Gage in their communities, the Paisano has been the cultural center of Marfa for decades. Good watering hole and a picturesque location. A small bit of trivia, the Paisano has a ¾ scale, almost-twin in Socorro, New Mexico.
